Oh my god. This sort of thing makes me furious. Can I get your fax number again?

I asked my case manager if Fortitude could fax, and he said yes. Then he ended up moving to another office and didn't take care of it, even though I left it in his box before he left. If this creates any problems with this, I'm filing a report with the Department of Correctional Health.

I don't know how much time I have left. I believe the letter said I had 45 days to get back to them. I don't know how long it's been since the date of the letter. To be on the safe side, should I go into the Social Security office tomorrow morning and tell them there was a communication failure at Fortitude and that we might need another two week extension?
